Cobalt Poets Series # 423 ~ April 14, 2020 ~ PoetrySuperHighway.com/cobalt

Circulatory

Scott Charles

Plug a pen into my neck
Let me speak the words
I cannot write; let my mouth
Ooze sounds straight from the brain

I soak in a puddle of ink
Smudging the walls as I begin

To travel

A hexagon

A lanterned

Stairwell

Originally from New York, Scott Charles has been writing poetry & traveling the country for 30 years.