My Creative Spirit

Eileen Carole

My creative spirit and me,

Together, we're in good company

She is my aura and my inner voice

We are one, complete

She is the ultra-violet of my purple

We write words from the soul

And tales from the heart

I am but potential without her,

An unfulfilled destiny

But, pen in hand, we take paper

And make poetry and prose

Translate the feelings of the world we live in

Reflections of a society

That cannot speak all of its pain

Nor express all of its joy

Without me, us

The creative spirits,

The muses of our time.

Cobalt Poets Series #497 ~ October 5, 2021 ~ PoetrySuperHighway.com/cobalt

Eileen Carole is the founder of a Los Angeles poetry group, The Writer's Corner (1995-2005) and began performing and publishing with them.. She combined her graphic design skills and guided them in publishing 5 anthologies. Since then she has art published multiple titles for herself and poets who want to produce their own books, as Pisces Publishing. Eileen is a lover of themes and is currently seeking submissions for Once Upon A Poem, to debut for 2022 National Poetry Month as a sequel to Creative Juices: Writers on the Poetry Process and uses that as her company name --Creative Juices: Words & Images. The images relate to her love of collage art and her 18"x24" color exploration is on the cover of Blue & The Blues, of which she is most proud.
